Dance event explores the wonder of “sculpted” movement

By Kathy Reed Whidbey Weekly

Price Sculpture Forest in Coupeville is preparing for a unique first-time dance event.

Take a moment and digest that, because several questions immediately spring to mind. Dance? In Price Sculpture Forest? The answer to both is a resounding yes!

Wander/Wonder, A Sculptured Dance Happening, will take place Saturday, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Price Sculpture Forest. There is a suggested donation of $20 per person, but this is also a pay-what-you-can event so all are able to attend. All proceeds from this event will benefit Langley’s Good Cheer Food Bank and Price Sculpture Forest.

The dance performance is the brainchild of choreographer and producer Eva Stone, who said she is always on the lookout for interesting places at which to perform.

“As an artist, my radar is always up,” she said. “I can’t ever go anywhere without thinking if dance could go there. Dance always needs a place to live.

“Around this time last year, a friend and I were on holiday on Whidbey,” Stone continued. “We were just driving down the road, saw a small sign and pulled in. We found Price Sculpture Forest by accident, really. And I thought ‘Oh, I could so put a dancer here.’ I constantly look for opportunities for dance in collaboration with art and the environment. I took down the number and called Scott [Price] immediately.”

Price, founder of the sculpture forest, liked the idea from the start.

“My initial reaction was, ‘Wow,’ followed a half-second later by, ‘Yes, let’s do this!’” he said. “Her concept was great and she kept building on it, both as we planned together and then laid out specifics on site.”

The staging for this show is unique. Stone has selected nine sculptures at various locations within the forest at which to place 10 dancers (one piece will have two dancers). The dances, which relate to the selected sculptures, are short and will be repeated throughout the two-hour performance window, so visitors may walk the trails and have an opportunity to see each of the dances.

“Each dancer will have a two-and-a-half-minute solo they will be instructed to perform as many times as they can in that two-hour period,” explained Stone. “People will come by, see the performance, and move on. Each piece is unique and individual.”

Anyone who has visited the Price Sculpture Forest is aware of the space – or lack thereof – around the sculptures. Some have more room than others. That has proved to be a challenge Stone and her selected dancers have embraced.

“It certainly is one of the more challenging spaces,” Stone acknowledged. “Some of the spaces next to the art are small and very confined. The dancer can’t move much. We have to get creative and use the body to its maximum. It’s definitely one of the most creative places I’ve worked, with challenging problems we’ve had to solve.”

“I am really looking forward to seeing how Eva and each professional dancer will interpret and interact with each selected sculpture,” said Price. “Each dance performance will add new dimensions of time, movement, story, personality and meaning. The dancers will be movement artists responding to and building upon the work of the sculpture artists.”

Stone said she loves the immediacy and intimacy of dance and hopes to create meaningful performances that will touch those who wander through this winding trail of sculpted – and now moving – art.

“Dance is temporal. As soon as it’s over, it’s gone,” she said. “It really is in that moment, in that time, in that space. It makes it very fulfilling.

“I think that just like the title Wander/Wonder suggests, people will find something magical in each performance,” Stone continued. “They’ll find grace, heartbreak, they might find tragedy or beauty. They will definitely find kinesthetic exploration that will evoke some sort of response or trigger a memory.”

“Visitors will be able to experience something completely new,” agreed Price. “It is for people of all ages and interests. We always strive to provide an experience that spans beauty, introspection, joy, and education. This grows all of those goals for visitors who can come and be a part of this performance.”

Price said performances such as Wander/Wonder fit perfectly with the overall vision of the sculpture forest.

“We are about presenting unique, nature-integrated art in a tangible, relatable, interactive, and personal way,” he said. “We already expand beyond the sculptures themselves by very intentional consideration of how they interrelate with their surrounding environment and how a visitor approaches them. This further builds on that principle by showing how seemingly static sculpture can come alive through interactive, purposeful movement that is personalized for each sculpture. It is a whole new way to experience dance and it is a whole new way to experience sculptural art.”

Stone said she hopes people will see something captivating, that they will arrive one way, and find themselves changed somehow. She hopes the nonverbal, abstract language of movement and dance will speak to those who choose to wander through the sculpture forest Saturday and leave its mark on their hearts.

“I’m excited to be on Whidbey on a beautiful August day, having beautiful dancers doing what they do best,” she said. “I’m most excited about setting my little creatures free in the woods and letting them have this experience. Not only does it enrich viewers, but also the dancers. Whether they’re onstage at McCaw Hall or in the woods, it all adds to their experience as an artist. It only exists when it happens, and then it’s over.”

Find more information at sculptureforest.org. Wander/Wonder has been made possible by a donation from Once Upon a Dance (onceuponadance.com).

“We have never considered ourselves to be just a park or just sculptures,” said Price. “This event adds an important new layer of possibility and enjoyment on top of what we already offer.”

Freeland group loses preliminary injunction request

By Kathy Reed Whidbey Weekly

An Island County superior court judge has denied a request for a preliminary injunction filed by the group, Freeland Concerned Citizens LLC, to stop the Harbor Inn motel in Freeland from being used for bridge and supportive housing.

The LLC had filed an appeal and a motion for a preliminary injunction last month against Island County, the Low Income Housing Institute (LIHI), the state Department of Commerce, former motel owner Lucky Bones and two individual Island County commissioners. The two commissioners have since been dismissed from the complaint.

Wander/Wonder: A Sculptured Dance Happening created by choreographer Eva Stone, will allow dancers like Julia Y. James to perform short dances based on some of the sculptures found in the Price Sculpture Forest in Coupeville. The performances will be repeated during the two-hour event, allowing visitors to the forest to see each one as they wander between the sculptures.

ON TRACK

With Jim Freeman

Whidbey Island's Conductor of Fun and our dear friend, Jim Freeman, passed away Sunday, June 19, 2022. His presence will be missed terribly. In honor of Jim, we will be publishing some of our favorite On Track columns while we

According to a Mercedes Benz TV commercial which I heard during last week's Olympics, "the best way to predict the future is to create it." Better get crackin', column lips, only 1,164 words left to go.

Email of the week

This week's email of the week is from a dear friend who raised premium line, purebred golden retrievers most of her life. I have had the pleasure of petting, hugging, feeding and throwing the ball for many of her wonderful pups.

As my dear friend fights glaucoma, shingles, and the aging process, her sense of humor is an inspiration for us all. Evidenced by the following email, reprinted here without her permission.

"The day started out a wee bit early. Kristi woke up at 10. So, we all got up at 10. Kristi has one of those barks that goes right through your ears and explodes in your head. Brushed my teeth, put the coffee water on and began their breakfast.

"Everything in the morning is carefully coordinated. Teeth, coffee, starting their breakfast... some of which is heated. Got the bowls out in proper order and started putting the vitamins and so forth in each bowl.

"Let me tell you, when you are losing your sight, specifically with glaucoma, your peripheral vision just ain't good.

"First thing, somehow the lid wasn't secure on the Vitamin E jar, just opened with 500 little new pills. Dropped the whole thing on the floor. On hands and knees trying to get all 500 of those little suckers back into the bottle.

"Of course, both my vacuums had quit working a week or so ago, so...there I am with my magnifying glass and flashlight trying to find all of them.

"Water kettle is screaming. Go in to make my cup of coffee. You know, little holder for the beans on top of the cup. Really have to watch pouring the boiling water nowadays. Successful, and then I knocked over the whole damn thing. Coffee grounds, boiling water all over the counter, the calendar, the bills, everything. Managed to clean most of it up.

"Back to the kids' breakfast. Hadn't done all the vitamins, and the one RX. Opened Jinx thyroid, set bottle on counter and knocked it over. Pills all over kingdom come.

"Down on my knees again, flashlight and magnifying glass in hand, looking for the brown pills on a brown rug.

"Realized I should have run (don't you just love that....run?) to find my Sherlock Holmes hat, but I was getting pretty sick of the whole thing by now.

"Getting down is hard enough...but getting up is a pain in the ass.

"Hopefully, I got everything.

"Since this all happened before noon, I shook off the British comment that somewhere it was cocktail hour in the British Kingdom, and resisted opening a bottle of champagne to celebrate my small success. However, I have managed some good inroads in the Zinfandel this evening.

"So jolly ho to everyone. I am going to bed before I can get into anymore trouble."

Help wanted

Murphy applied for a job at a famous Irish firm based in Dublin. A Norwegian man also applied for the same job. Since both applicants had similar qualifications, they were asked to take a test. Both candidates were then led by the manager to a quiet room for testing.

When the results were in, both men had scored the same—19 correct out of 20. The manager went to Murphy and said, "Thank you for coming to the interview, but we've decided to give the job to the young Norwegian."

Murphy was shocked. "And why would you do that? We both got 19 questions correct. This being Ireland, and me being Irish, surely I should get the job."

The manager was quick to respond, "We have made our decision, not because of your correct answers, but because of the one and only question which you got wrong."

Murphy, still surprised, evidenced his confusion, "And just how would one incorrect answer be better than another?"

"Simple," said the manager of the Irish firm. "On question number 7, our other applicant, the young Norwegian man, wrote down: 'I don't know.'"

"You put down, 'Neither do I.'"

Heavenly concerns

St. Peter to St. Francis: "You know all about gardens and nature. What in the world is going on down there on the planet? What happened to the dandelions, violets, milkweeds and stuff God started eons ago? He had a perfect no-maintenance garden plan. Those plants grow in any type of soil, withstand drought and multiply with abandon. The nectar from the long-lasting blossoms attracts butterflies, honey bees and flocks of songbirds. We expected to see a vast garden of colors by now. But, all we see are these green rectangles."

St. Francis: "It's the tribes that settled there, St. Peter. The Suburbanites. They started calling flowers 'weeds' and went to great lengths to kill them and replace them with grass."

St. Peter: "Grass? But, it's so boring. It's not colorful. It doesn't attract butterflies, birds and bees; only grubs and sod worms. It's sensitive to temperatures. Do these Suburbanites really want all that grass growing there?"

St. Francis: "Apparently so. They go to great pains to grow it and keep it green. They begin each spring by fertilizing grass and poisoning any other plant that crops up in the lawn."

St. Peter: "The spring rains and warm weather probably make grass grow really fast. That must make the Suburbanites happy."

St. Francis: "Apparently not. As soon as it grows a little, they cut it—sometimes twice a week."

St. Peter: "They cut it? Do they then bale it like hay?"

St. Francis: "Not exactly. Most of them rake it up and put it in bags."

St. Peter: "They bag it? Why? Is it a cash crop? Do they sell it?"

St. Francis: "No, just the opposite. They pay to throw it away."

St. Peter: "Now, let me get this straight. They fertilize grass so it will grow. And, when it does grow, they cut it off and pay to throw it away?"

St. Francis: "Yes."

St. Peter: "These Suburbanites must be relieved in the summer when we cut back on the rain and turn up the heat. That surely slows the growth and saves them a lot of work."

St. Francis: "You aren't going to believe this, St. Peter. When the grass stops growing so fast, they drag out hoses and pay more money to water it, so they can continue to mow it and pay to get rid of it."

St. Peter: "What nonsense. At least they kept some of the trees. That was a sheer stroke of genius, if I do say so myself. The trees grow leaves in the spring to provide beauty and shade in the summer. In the autumn, they fall to the ground and form a natural blanket to keep moisture in the soil and protect the trees and bushes. It's a natural cycle of life."

St. Francis: "You better sit down. The Suburbanites have drawn a new circle. As soon as the leaves fall, they rake them into great piles and pay to have them hauled away."

St. Peter: "No! What do they do to protect the shrub and tree roots in the winter to keep the soil moist and loose?"

St. Francis: "After throwing away the leaves, they go out and buy something which they call mulch. They haul it home and spread it around in place of the leaves."

St. Peter: "And where do they get this mulch?"

St. Francis: "They cut down trees and grind them up to make the mulch."

St. Peter: "Enough! I don't want to think about this anymore. St. Catherine, you're in charge of the Arts. What movie have you scheduled for us tonight?"

St. Catherine: "'Dumb and Dumber', St. Peter. It's a story about..."

St. Peter: "Never mind, I think I just heard the whole story from St. Francis."

Whidbey Playhouse Announces Auditions for "Earth and Sky"

Auditions for Whidbey Playhouse's November production of "Earth and Sky" will take place Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 27 and 28, from 1:00 to 4:00PM in the STAR Studio.

Roles are available for three females, ages 20s-40s; and six males, ages 30s-50s. Those auditioning may have a prepared scene ready, but it is not required.

All must provide proof of vaccinations.

Earth and Sky is best described as an onstage Film Noir. When poet/librarian Sara McKeon learns her boyfriend of 10 weeks has been viciously murdered, she has no idea things can get even worse. Evidence suggests David was possibly involved in a variety of illicit activities. Unable to reconcile these accusations with her memories, and fuming that the police don't seem engaged, Sara begins her own investigation deep into an urban underworld. The story moves backward and forward in time in overlapping scenes, from Sara and David's first meeting to the climatic resolution, as she finds herself facing her lover's killer.

Earth and Sky will be performed Nov. 4-20. For more information, contact the Whidbey Playhouse at 360-679-2237 or office@whidbeyplayhouse.com.

Oak Harbor Music Festival to Award Oak Harbor Public Schools $10,000 for Young Musicians' Instruments

The Oak Harbor Music Festival (OHMF) recently announced the kickoff of its new Quarter Note Fund for Young Musicians, created in memory of Gregory Johnson.

"In the Festival's 10 years, we have awarded over $60,000 in scholarships to our community's graduating seniors," said OHMF President Cynthia Mason. "This new effort directs assistance to Whidbey Island kids in elementary and middle school grades with a passion for music who can't afford an instrument. We dream that one day, a local student will enjoy a lifetime of inspiration from music, in part because we gave that passion a boost."

The Quarter Note Fund's initial award will be $10,000 to fifth and sixth grade music programs at Oak Harbor Public Schools, pending OHPS board approval. It will be presented at 6:00PM Wednesday in Windjammer Park at the Music Festival's Sounds of Summer concert, featuring Janie Cribbs and the T.Rust Band. "Our budgeted amount, from festival operations, was enhanced by earmarked donations from the community," said Mason, who expects that model to repeat in coming years. "This is only the beginning!"

"Music education is a critical part of providing our children with the tools necessary to be successful in school. Music helps students build self-esteem and essential skills and creativity that prepares them for a bright future," said Oak Harbor Public Schools Superintendent Michelle Kuss-Cybula. "This donation will further music education in our schools. Thank you to the Oak Harbor Music Festival board for their support and dedication to our students!"

Mason says the OHMF board chose "Quarter Note" because "young musicians are small... and they've lived just a fraction of their lives, with so much still ahead." The fund was also named to honor Gregory Johnson, a local young musician who died suddenly in 2020. Gregory's parents, Chris and Kevin, have generations of family and musical roots in Oak Harbor. Gregory got his start in music through the Oak Harbor Middle School band program. And, appropriately, he first played music on a borrowed saxophone. Gregory became an accomplished bass player and found his joy in music. It is the hope of Gregory's family that through this fund, Gregory's love for music will live on and inspire young students to find their joy in music as well.

Earmarked donations to the Quarter Note Fund can be made at www.oakharborfestival.com, by check to PO Box 987, Oak Harbor WA 98277, or with an email inquiry to Mary Anderson, Fund Development Director, at info@oakharborfestival.com.

Oak Harbor Music Festival's mission is to inspire our community with the power of music. As a 501(c)(3) organization featuring three free days of music on Pioneer Way every Labor Day weekend, the festival has provided scholarships to graduating seniors from all three of Whidbey's high schools for the past seven years.

Whidbey Allied Artists at the Oak Harbor Music Festival

Nine local artists representing Whidbey Allied Artists (WAA) will be showing and selling their art during the Oak Harbor Labor Day weekend music festival. Participating artists are Judy Bishop, Ivy Breen, Charlotte Gray, Kelly Liedtke, Rainy Lindell, Carol Rhodes, Sharon Tryon, Bruce Williams-Burden and Vicki Yount. You'll find photography, painting, ceramics, mosaics and mixed media.

The show and sales will be Friday, Sept. 2, 5:00 to 8:00PM; Saturday, Sept. 3 and Sunday, Sept. 4, 11:00AM to 6:00PM, on Pioneer Way in Historic Downtown Oak Harbor.

Scholarships Awarded by Island County Master Gardener Foundation

Luke Carlson, of Coupeville, and Molly Quade, of Freeland, have each received a $1,000 scholarship from the Island County Master Gardener Foundation to support their degree programs in Agricultural Education at Washington State University. Both students will begin their senior year this fall with student teaching assignments - Luke in the Tri-Cities area and Molly in Lakewood. Upon graduation, each will receive a Bachelor of Science degree in Agricultural and Food Systems with a teaching endorsement.

Luke's achievements include five consecutive semesters on the President's Honor Roll at Washington State University. He has shown leadership as an Eagle Scout, treasurer of the Agricultural Education Club, and house manager of his fraternity. His goal after graduation is to be a shop teacher and small farmer. Growing up in Coupeville, he found his high school shop class and working on a local farm to be consistently fulfilling. Those two areas became his calling and led to pursuing Agricultural Education as a major.

Molly earned an Associate of Arts degree at Skagit Valley College before going to Washington State University, where she has been active in the Horticulture Club and Agricultural Education Club, as well as working in the Honeybee Research Lab and volunteering at South Whidbey Tilth. Molly's goal is to find innovative ways to make agricultural education more accessible to the public on a personal, smaller scale.

The Island County Master Gardener Foundation is a nonprofit organization that supports Washington State University's Extension Master Gardener Program. The foundation scholarship is for students studying or intending to study in horticultural programs. Preference is given to Island County students, but applications are also welcome from Snohomish, Whatcom, Skagit and San Juan County residents. Applications will be available at the Washington State University Extension Office in Coupeville beginning Sept. 1. For further information, contact the foundation president at icmgf.president@gmail.com.

Skagit Valley College and Swinomish Indian Tribal Community Partner to Launch a New Nationally Accredited Dental Therapy Education Program

This fall, Skagit Valley College (SVC), in partnership with Swinomish Indian Tribal Community (Swinomish), will launch the first Dental Therapy Education Program in Washington state to address the ongoing oral health workforce disparities among underrepresented minorities, specifically the American Indian/Alaska Native (AI/AN) communities.

Dəx'xayəbus-Dental Therapy Education Program at SVC is accredited by the Commission on Dental Accreditation (CODA) and has been granted the accreditation status of approval with reporting requirements. The commission is a specialized accrediting body recognized by the United States Department of Education. The Commission on Dental Accreditation can be contacted at 800-232-6108 or at 211 E. Chicago Avenue, Suite 1900, Chicago, Illinois 60611. The commission's web address is: <https://coda.ada.org/en>.

The Dental Therapy Program was recently granted accreditation by CODA after a decade of advocacy, collaboration, planning, developing and implementation between Swinomish and SVC. It is the first education program of its kind in the lower 48 contiguous states to receive accreditation.

"We are very excited to receive accreditation and begin offering the program this fall," said Dr. Tom Keegan, SVC President. "Graduates will help provide much needed high-quality dental care to tribal communities across the country."

"This has been a truly collaborative effort inspired by the Swinomish Indian Tribal Community and many others," said Keegan. "It has required vision, innovation, persistence, technical expertise and a commitment to serve others."

"We are very pleased and thankful the dəx'xayəbus-Dental Therapy Program has now received accreditation," said Swinomish Tribal Chairman Steve Edwards. "Swinomish and SVC staff have worked for years to develop this important training program and then to take the steps necessary for accreditation."

"Dental therapists bring culturally appropriate oral health care to Native communities," continued Chairman Edwards. "There is an unmet need for dental therapists, and now this training program will make dental therapy training available here in Washington, so students won't have to move far from home to learn these valuable skills."

The name of the Dental Therapy Program is dəx'xayəbus, which is a Lushootseed phrase pronounced as dahf-hi-ya-buus, and translates to a Place of Smiles. Lushootseed is a common language of coastal Salish tribes, made up of many local dialects of Native Americans throughout the Puget Sound region.

This new professional dental education program is co-located at Skagit Valley College's Mount Vernon Campus and Swinomish Indian Tribal Community's Dental Clinic. The program aims to deliver "smiles," because smiles are strong indicators of personal confidence as well as physical and mental health.

The cohort-based program is a rigorous three-year curriculum and focuses on student-centered teaching and learning with a commitment to equitable student outcomes.

The Dental Therapy Program was developed through collaboration of numerous partners, including: Swinomish Tribal Senate, departmental leadership, and community members; SVC and supporting departments; world-wide dental therapy advocates; Washington Dental Therapy Education Advisory Committee; Northwest Portland Area Indian Health Board; ARCORA; Margaret A. Cargill Philanthropies; Kellogg Foundation; and the National Indian Health Board.

"We could not have more supportive partners," said Rachael Hogan, DDS, Swinomish Dental Clinic Director and Director/Chair of the program. "We are grateful to each of them for their continued persistence, guidance, and optimism for our vision of bringing holistic, patient-centered, culturally responsive, and clinically excellent oral health care to underserved and underrepresented communities."

Skagit Valley College Bachelor's Degree Program Featured for Advancing Access, Equity, Outcomes

Skagit Valley College's Bachelor of Applied Science in Business Administration (BASAM) was recently featured in "20 Promising Practices to Advance Quality, Equity, and Success in Community College Baccalaureate Degree Programs," an e-book published by the Community College Baccalaureate Association.

"The BASAM program feature highlights the phenomenal cross-college collaboration that has taken place in taking this program and the underlying concepts from ideas to reality to make a bachelor in management degree a possibility for our local community" said BAS-Applied Management instructor and Program Chair Sunaina Virendra. "It makes me so proud to be part of an institution that makes this kind of work and impact possible."

The e-book describes promising practices implemented by community colleges conferring baccalaureate degrees in the U.S. and was led by the Community College Baccalaureate Association (CCBA), a national council committed to growing high quality, equitable community college baccalaureate (CCB) degrees.

Of the 20 promising practices mentioned in the e-book, the BASAM program is featured in "Access, Equity, and Outcomes" for its 360 Equity Design.

Known as the learning lab for the 21st century place, BASAM equips students with an integrated view of management functions that incorporates critical reasoning, an awareness of culture bound assumptions, individually contextualized professionalism and discipline knowledge, in a way that supports timely completion. BASAM is grounded in "Equity 360:" a multi-dimensional approach to embedding principles of equity into every aspect of the program from entry requirements and instruction to completion, labor market, and graduate studies.

Now entering its fifth year, BASAM is a two-year, 90-credit career-oriented program that is designed for those who have completed an associate degree and who are interested in management careers. The program has two tracks: general management, and health care management.

Leadership Whidbey Now Accepting Applications

Skagit Valley College, the Economic Development Council for Island County, Sno-Isle Libraries, The Whidbey Institute, and community partners are proud to announce that applications are now being accepted for the third annual Leadership Whidbey program. The program will take place from October 28, 2022 through May 19, 2023.

Leadership Whidbey is a seven-month community leadership development program. A foundational tenet of the program is that informed and connected critical thinkers who have a perspective grounded in community service will lead, strengthen, and transform our communities. Current and future leaders from all sectors are encouraged to apply.

The LW curriculum features 11 educational days designed to facilitate discovery, growth, exploration, and discussion to support:

- Self-reflection/personal leadership reflection and development.
- Knowledge and understanding of place, local history, and current issues.
- Relationships, communication, and understanding across broad and diverse communities.

The deadline to apply is Sept. 7. Applicants must live or work on Whidbey Island. For more information, email connect@leadershipwhidbey.com or visit leadershipwhidbey.org.

Tickets include games and prizes, carnival treats and beverages. Homeplaceoakharbor.com

End of Summer Events at Whidbey Island State Parks: The following events are free; a Washington State Park Discover Pass is required for park access.

Winter Survival for Animals: The summer is at an end. What are the animals going to do now? Fall is on its way and winter won't be far behind. As temperatures drop, we add layers of clothes and spend more time inside drinking hot cocoa. But what about animals? What do they do? Come find out the strategies they use to survive until spring. This Junior Ranger program will be presented at Fort Ebey State Park Saturday, Aug. 27 and at Fort Casey Saturday, Sept. 3, both at 10 a.m. Register by emailing: CentralWhidbeyInterpretation@parks.wa.gov.

Call of the Wild: Learn about animal calls in this program presented by Deception Pass State Park Manager Jason Armstrong. Learn about some of the various animal calls that can be heard in the park and how they make them. This program will be Saturday, Sept. 3, 10 to 11 a.m., at the Deception Pass State Park Amphitheater, and is recommended for families with kids ages 6 and up due to the dexterity required to learn duck calling. Deceptionpassfoundation.org

New-To-You Books and More for Sale: Find your next read or gift at the Oak Harbor Friends of the Library Pop-Up Book Sale! Hundreds of gently used children's and adult books, CDs and DVDs will be available at bargain prices. The sale will be held in the Oak Harbor Library entrance lobby on Friday, Sept. 9 and Saturday, Sept. 10, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mukilteo Lighthouse Festival: Head to Mukilteo Sept. 9-11 for this fun festival featuring food, entertainment, artist booths, children's activities, a 5K/10K Run/Walk, a parade and more. MukFest.com

Prepare to Celebrate "Grandparents Day": Grandparents Day is Sunday, Sept. 11. Create (and mail if necessary), those beloved homemade gifts and cards. Spread more joy by adopting the seniors in your neighborhood who would love greeting cards, treats or a bouquet of flowers at their doorstep. Here are some free printables and cute ideas to inspire you: Uniqueideas.site/10-unique-grandparents-day-ideas-for-school.

Celebrate Fall in Freeland: Enjoy live music from the Fiddle Chix, outdoor games, a fall-themed craft for kids, refreshments, a petting zoo with Ballydean Farm Sanctuary, and more. Admission is free. Saturday, Sept. 17, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., at the Freeland Library.

NAS Whidbey Island Open House: The base will be opening its doors to the public in an Open House, Saturday, Sept. 17, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. The event will include a 5K run around the flightline, with the gate opening at 7 a.m. for registration. There is no pre-registration for the 5K. Be there at 7 a.m. to register; the run begins at 8 a.m. The flightline opens at 9 a.m. for static displays of Growlers, P-8s, SAR, K9 demonstrations, the Navy Band, and more! Admission is free. A valid ID such as a driver's license or passport will be required at the gate.

September "Fly Days" at Heritage Flight Museum: Saturdays, Sept. 10 and 17, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. for a rip-roaring day of family fun. Experience the thrill of historic warbirds in flight! The Burlington museum also has new exhibits: The '68 Experience and Earthrise Gallery, featuring the story of the Apollo 8 moon mission. See artifacts from astronaut Maj. Gen. William Anders, including a piece of the moon encased in NASA's Ambassador of Exploration Award. Be sure to check the Facebook page before heading out; flying is subject to change due to weather or other circumstances. Heritageflight.org

Civility First's Annual Art and Photography Contest: Civility First of Whidbey invites participants of all ages to submit an original artwork or photograph with the theme of "Respect Others, Listen, and Be Kind."

Artists and aspiring artists who are concerned about the lack of civil discourse in our society are encouraged to enter the contest, to help spread the message through their artwork about the need to "Respect Others, Listen, and Be Kind." There are three age categories: Children (12 and under), Youth (13-18), Adult (over 18). A cash prize will be given to the winner and two runners-up in each age category.

The deadline to submit entries is Sept. 16. Entries will be judged by the Pacific Northwest Art School in Coupeville. All submissions are to be mailed in an envelope and accompanied by a completed entry form, found at: www.civilityfirst.org/2022-art-contest.html.

"Would Be Players" Youth Theater Program at Whidbey Playhouse: Theater training helps your child in many valuable ways. Experiences and skills include self-confidence, critical thinking, problem solving, self-discipline, public speaking and teamwork. The fall session for youth in elementary and middle school is Sept. 5 through Oct. 29. Classes meet twice a week, for two hours. The workshop is $125. Scholarships are available. Registration and information: WhidbeyPlayhouse.com.

Playscape: Indoor Play with New Friends: Mother Mentors of Whidbey Island invites families throughout Whidbey Island to join them for Playscape events this fall. Groups meet during the week at locations in Langley and Oak Harbor. These free, facilitated, informal meetings offer conversation, support, play and learning experiences, and an indoor place to gather with other caregivers of young children. How can you help? Mother Mentors is also looking for caring women in the community who would like to be matched to a mother of young children. Trained volunteers then visit weekly to be of support, by being present for much needed adult conversation and building caring relationships with the children in the home. Support can also include simple tasks, such as preparing a meal or reading a story to a sibling or playing with the children while the parent or caregiver attends to other tasks. For a Playscape event schedule, or to find out more about becoming a mentor: Mothermentors.org.

Haunters and Helpers Wanted: A "Haunted Fort" is planned at Fort Casey State Park on Saturdays and Sundays, Oct. 22-23 and 29-30, from 12 to 3 p.m. This festive event is a fundraiser for the Admiralty Head Lighthouse. Actors, volunteers and sponsors are needed to make this a spooky good time. Interested? Contact Ben Honeycutt at bchoneycutt@hotmail.com.

Island Transit Offers an Office with a View

I found Kim talking with the other bus operators at Terry's Corner where all the Island Transit Camano buses connect. Her beautiful purple Hawaiian shirt, silver earrings, stylish hair and makeup set her apart from the guys. She told me she loves her co-workers, one in particular. After starting to work for Island Transit, she enjoyed it so much, she talked her husband into it, too. Now, both of them are bus operators. "This is the best job I've ever had. This is my office," she said gesturing toward the bus. "It has a great view, and it changes every day." Kim especially likes driving the West Camano route for its water views. She'd made two stops that day at Cama Beach State Park where their weekend events can be accessed by bus.

KIM - Camano bus operator

Kim is a people person, getting to know her passengers by name, especially the seniors. "Some of them have no other way to get to the doctor or the grocery store. They have to eat, too." She realizes many live alone and don't have anyone to talk with, so when they're on the bus... "They tell good stories."

Did You Know...
You can access parks and trails by bus? The West Camano Route stops at Cama Beach State Park upon request, the Elger Bay Preserve trails, and at Can Ku Road, a half mile from the Camano Ridge Forest Preserve trails. Whidbey Island buses also serve many trailheads and parks. For more information visit: www.islandtransit.org/visit-the-islands

We are looking for good drivers with all levels of experience. No CDL required to get hired - we train!

Earn great starting wages, medical and dental benefits, and two retirement funds.

Apply online: www.islandtransit.org/employment

The Whidbey Island Woodworkers' Guild will hold its 18th annual Woodpalooza event Sept. 3-5 at Whidbey Island Center for the Arts' Zech Hall in Langley. The free event features a wide variety of wood furniture and other items, all created by Guild members. Hours each day are from noon to 5 p.m.

18th annual Woodpalooza celebrates the versatility of woodworking

By Melanie Hammons Whidbey Weekly

Is it art, or is it science? Actually, when the subject is woodworking, it turns out it's both. At the 18th Annual Woodpalooza at Whidbey Island Center for the Art's Zech Hall in Langley, Sept 3-5, the public will have a chance to see both. The event, sponsored and hosted by the Whidbey Island Woodworkers' Guild, is free of charge to the public, said Gary Leake, who handles the group's PR and marketing.

"Our guild is composed of one-person shops for the most part," said Leake.

Luthiers (musical instrument crafters,) carvers, furniture makers and restorers, chair-makers, and more are represented. He explained that the guild's original purpose was to "keep the work local." Another aim of the group is educational outreach.

"We've tried to address the question, 'How can we best demonstrate our craft and attract work, too?'" Leake said.

The outworking of those two goals has resulted in the annual Woodpalooza event. The selection of finished items for display and sale includes finely-crafted wood furniture which may include chairs, sofa tables and cabinetry, music stands, art and musical instruments. It's a testament to the creativity and versatility that drives the passion of wood crafters. And that's where you catch glimpses of "the art of woodworking."

Local wood-worker Thomas Eller's approach is illustrative of that creative process.

This eight-by-14-foot Viking ship table is the creation of Whidbey Island Woodworkers' Guild member Dave Anderson, and is one of many pieces that will be featured at Woodpalooza Sept. 3-5.

"I wouldn't say I have a 'favorite' wood, but I do favor any kind of spalted wood (tree wood that's been infused with fungi, resulting in interesting patterns in the grain.) Usually, that's alder, maple, pecan, and occasionally walnut," he said.

"I like to create with my mind's eye," Eller continued. "I usually find suitable wood around Whidbey or the Northwest." He said he has fashioned clocks, art pieces, and traditional wood pieces for the show this year. Interestingly, he's also created urns for pets and people, having sold three in last year's show.

Leake and his wife, Sandy, part of the original group who formed the guild, refinish furniture. He said he repurposes wood "whenever I can," explaining that some clients insist upon that.

"For example, the current trend is to repurpose armoires into smaller cabinets for use as kitchen pantries," he explained.

Leake said some woods required for restoration are no longer available. However, he said he is fortunate to have inherited a stash such as Brazilian rosewood and Cuban mahogany, which are no longer allowed to be imported.

The artistic and aesthetic qualities of wood are highly appreciated by Leake, who calls it "a natural medium." For him, it's tactile, going beyond mere appearance.

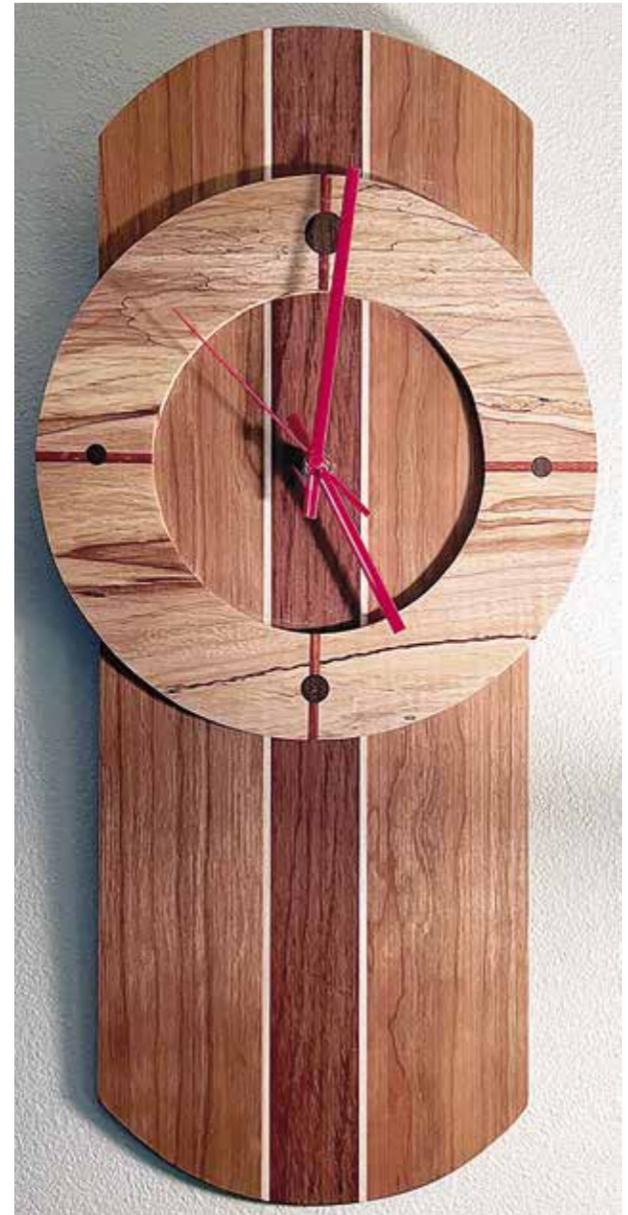

"You can feel it and smell it," he said. "Many woods have wonderful smells as they are being worked, including hickory, cherry, apple, and Hawaiian koa. The tree is still alive, just in a different form. At last count, I've worked with 45 different woods, including nine different walnuts, eight different oaks, and so on. Two of my favorites include Oregon walnut and American black cherry. These timbers exhibit a wide range of coloring, grain, character, chatoyance (like a cat's eye,) and great natural/live edges."

Even the location for the annual show, Zech Hall, part of Whidbey Island Center for the Arts, carries along the same aesthetic theme.

"The building has black walls, no windows, theater lighting, and white pedestals," Leake said. It's a setting that seems custom-made to highlight the beautiful wood pieces on display. It comes as no surprise that for eight years running now, Zech Hall has hosted Woodpalooza.

The second aim of the Whidbey Island Woodworkers Guild, to foster educational outreach, is an on-going process. Leake's growing-up experiences underscored for him the importance of that.

"My small school never had a wood shop; instead, I learned the skill at a young age from my grandfather. He was a master craftsman, cabinet/furniture maker and restorer. We hope to have a demonstrator bench at the show to highlight our craft, and continue that sort of educational outreach," said Leake.

Whidbey Island Woodworkers' Guild member Thomas Eller says he kind of grew into woodworking over the years and now does pieces like the clock and sushi board shown in these photos.

Eller followed a different path to wood working, coming from a career in pipefitting and welding, and later, twisting metal to form metallic jewelry. He filled a vacancy for a woodshop teacher at Coupeville High School, retiring after 25 years of teaching. During his time there, he emphasized the importance of metal trades along with wood crafting, and successfully convinced the school to start offering a welding curriculum.

Leake said he's seen a lot of changes in his time as a wood worker.

"I still use many of the 'antique' tools that my grandfather used," he said. But over the years, you come across new tools, new woods, and new techniques. And over time, you learn to work with the different properties of different woods."

It's in those "new tools, new techniques, and different wood properties," that the science part of the wood working equation seems most evident. According to organizers, it's remarkable how the art and science of working with wood meld together so wonderfully, resulting in the wares displayed at Zech Hall.

Woodpalooza is a free event. The show takes place Labor Day Weekend, September 3 - 5, from noon to 5 p.m. each day at Zech Hall, 565 Camano Avenue, Langley. Refer to the website woodpalooza.com for more information. For latest Covid-19 protocol, please go to www.wicaonline.org

INJUNCTION continued from page 2

Randal Thiel of Bellevue, the attorney for Freeland Concerned Citizens LLC, presented several arguments challenging Island County commissioners' approval of a $1.5 million grant to LIHI towards the purchase of the motel. LIHI had already received a grant of more than $3 million from the commerce department for the purchase, which was finalized July 22. Thiel said they sought to stop LIHI from any further development of the property until there is a final resolution in the case.

"We just want to preserve the status quo," he told the court.

Lawyers for the defendants in the case told the court there were so many arguments raised in Thiel's subsequent pleadings, they didn't know what to argue.

"None of us has had a chance to even know what the plaintiff is alleging," said LIHI attorney Michael Rubin.

"What we've got today is massive confusion," stated Peter Smiley, Island County chief civil prosecutor.

Even JudgeCarolynn Cliff said the injunction sought "has been a moving target," saying it wasn't clear whether the Freeland group was asking the court to nullify the transaction or stop LIHI from all future development activity.

"Injunctive relief is in itself, extraordinary relief. The litigant who seeks it needs to show proof. ... The court saw nothing in the way of proof," Cliff said, denying the request for the preliminary injunction.

Cliff did say she would be prepared to listen to arguments regarding the group's zoning concerns at a September hearing.

Gary Wray, of Coupeville, is one of the three

"governors" of Freeland Concerned Citizens LLC. Following the hearing, Wray told Whidbey Weekly he is not opposed to the Harbor Inn project. A member of Island County's Housing Advisory Board, and an affordable housing advocate, Wray said he has serious concerns about existing infrastructure to support this project, particularly the septic. Wray said he just wants to be sure everything about this project is being done correctly.

GRILLING MEAT-FREE AT SUMMER BARBECUES

Grilled foods are staples of summertime. There is just something about gathering with friends and family and cooking meals over an open flame to enjoy in the great outdoors — whether at a backyard barbecue or on a camping trip — that makes foods taste even better.

Burgers, steaks and chicken may be some of the first items that come to mind when pondering grilled fare. But vegetarians and vegans should rest easy knowing that vegetables and other non-meats are equally at home on grills, and taste just as smoky and delicious as more traditional fare.

Seitan is a plant-based meat substitute that is utilized in many recipes, including those for grilled dishes. Seitan can mimic the flavor and texture of chicken, and this recipe for “Barbecue Seitan Skewers” from “Vegan Cooking for Beginners” (Publications International, Ltd.) by the PIL editors is sure to please.

BARBECUE SEITAN SKEWERS (Makes 4 servings)

- 1 package (8 ounces) seitan, cubed
- 1/2 cup barbecue sauce, divided
- 1 red bell pepper, cut into 12 pieces
- 1 green bell pepper, cut into 12 pieces
- 12 white or cremini mushrooms
- 1 zucchini, cut into 12 pieces

1. Place seitan in medium bowl. Add 1/4 cup barbecue sauce; stir to coat. Marinate in refrigerator 30 minutes. Soak four bamboo skewers in water 20 minutes.

2. Oil grid. Prepare grill for direct cooking. Thread seitan, bell peppers, mushrooms, and zucchini onto skewers.

3. Grill skewers, covered, over medium-high heat 8 minutes or until seitan is hot and glazed with sauce, brushing with some of remaining sauce and turning occasionally.

WEEKLY HOROSCOPES

ARIES – Mar 21/Apr 20

Aries, take a step back and allow people some room to figure things out. Your offers to help are appreciated and will be accepted in due time.

TAURUS – Apr 21/May 21

Taurus, others appreciate your authenticity. Stay true to yourself and you will have no regrets. Encourage others to do the same when they seek your input.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21

Gemini, this week is a good opportunity for some serious introspection. Put yourself in other people’s shoes before you render an opinion.

CANCER – June 22/July 22

An important decision is looming, Cancer. Take some time to look inward as you try to decide the best path to take. Don’t hesitate to seek input from people you trust.

LEO – July 23/Aug 23

It is alright to have some doubts when you are trying something new, Leo. Just don’t let those doubts get the better of you and derail your plans.

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22

Virgo, a public gathering in the near future may attract several people, including some you are interested in meeting. Take the first step and introduce yourself.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS

- AUGUST 21: Usain Bolt, Runner (36)

- AUGUST 23: Seth Curry, Athlete (32)
- AUGUST 24: Rupert Grint, Actor (34)

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23

Libra, this week you are likely to feel refreshed and energized. This may pave the way to some new ideas, including a change of scenery or even a new job.

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22

Scorpio, at this point in your life, it is important to go with the flow and learn from others with an easygoing approach. Take time to exhale and unwind.

SAGITTARIUS – Nov 23/Dec 21

Sagittarius, you have long been practical and sensible with your finances. But this week you may be lured by a flashy purchase. If it is in the budget, then let loose.

CAPRICORN – Dec 22/Jan 20

Clear your mind of cobwebs and any other errant thoughts, Capricorn. Right now you need to relax and unwind for a bit, and you’ll feel better after a few days of recharging.

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18

Aquarius, after many months of asking yourself where you want your life to go, this week you finally have a plan of action to put in motion. Enjoy the ride.

PISCES – Feb 19/Mar 20

Be extra patient and affectionate towards all of your loved ones this week, Pisces. Someone close to you will need your help.

Bradley Joseph Terrell

Bradley "Brad" "BJ" Joseph Terrell, 53, of Citrus Springs, Fla., passed away Aug. 2, 2022 after a motor vehicle accident.

Brad was born July 15, 1969 in Los Angeles, Calif., to Deann E. Terrell and Joseph D. Terrell.

Brad moved to Oak Harbor, Wash., with his parents, Joe and Deann, along with his brother, Brett, and sister, Brandie, in 1974. Brad was also raised by his stepmother, Barbara Terrell.

Brad attended school in Oak Harbor and Coupeville, Wash., on Whidbey Island. Brad had the gift of storytelling. It's a gift born of time, patience, and the ability to walk up to anyone and start a conversation. He could talk with anyone because Brad truly cared about people and it showed when he talked with you and shared his stories. Brad worked for Nichols Brothers Boat Builders in Freeland, Wash., on Whidbey Island as a welder and pipe fitter. Bradley enjoyed hiking in the great outdoors, motorcycling and mechanics. Brad loved all animals, especially his Florida felines Angelo and Pete; his companions King, a German Shepard and Sam, his car riding feline and the family pet dog, Buffer. Brad was a talented artist and enjoyed creating beautiful artwork with pen and ink.

Brad moved to Citrus Springs and completed Heavy Equipment Operator School in 2018. He operated heavy equipment in central Florida.

Brad is survived by his girlfriend, Tina Marie Verschraegen; her three children, Joshua, Brianna and Alexis; parents Joseph and Barbara Terrell, Jr.; sister Brandie Morgan (Terrell) Kostoryz and a host of other friends and relatives.

Brad's online memorial is at everloved.com/life-of/bradley-terrell/.

There will be a Celebration of Life for Brad Sunday, Aug. 28 from 12-7 p.m. at the Coupeville Town Park located at 6 Front St NW in Coupeville. Please text Logan Davis for details at 360-720-6436. Donations in honor of Brad's memory may be made to Whidbey Animal Improvement Foundation at waifanimals.org/donate/.

Gilbert Daniel Hassler

Gilbert Daniel Hassler, 95, passed away Aug. 16, 2022, at his home in Marysville, Wash. Gilbert, referred to by many as Gil or Gurps, was born Feb. 17, 1927, in Underwood, N.D., to his parents, Joseph Hassler and Louisa Anna Johanna Jennerjohn. There he lived with his five brothers (Earl, Leonard, Darold, Joseph, and Leslie) and two sisters (Joyce and Goldie) until they all moved to Whidbey Island in 1936.

Gilbert married his wife, Lucille Helen Wiedenman-House, Dec. 6, 1963. They were married for 28 years. They had their daughter, Regina (Regi), in 1967. Gil has three stepchildren: Terry House, Tracey Theisen, and Linda Houlroyd. He also has two adopted sons from his previous marriage.

Gil could always be found outdoors. Whether he was working on cars, fishing, hunting, camping, or just lending a helping hand. He was a hardworking man and had many jobs over the years, which included working on vegetable and dairy farms, driving freight, logging and gravel trucks, or working as a mechanic. He spent much of his life as an auto mechanic, working for Shepard Chevrolet in Oak Harbor for 11 years before opening his own service station he named Gil's Garage, in Coupeville, in 1964, which he later sold in 1979. Gil was a member of the local Lions Club and enjoyed helping his small-town community of Coupeville. He went on to work part time at the local 76 gas station and taught high school students in the CRT program the mechanics' trade. His last job was on the Engle Family Farm in Coupeville, working with his friends Bob and Len Engle.

Gil was given a second chance at life when he miraculously survived an aneurysm in October 2001, the day he referred to as his second birthday. After that he moved in with his daughter and grandchildren in Marysville. He spent the rest of his years doing what he loved; playing with his grandkids and watching them grow up, going on camping and fishing trips with his brothers, gardening and sharing stories with friends and family.

Gil loved everyone he met and everyone he met loved him. He always had something funny or sarcastic to say. His loving nature and words of wisdom will be missed by all. Gil is survived by his daughter, Regina Hassler-Zumwalt; his grandchildren, Kyle Zumwalt and Alisha Zumwalt; as well as his two sisters, Joyce Evans of Oak Harbor and Goldie Krapf of Anacortes, Wash.; his stepdaughter, Linda Houlroyd of Ellensburg, Wash.; and 14 more grandchildren.

There will be a public viewing for friends and family to say their good-byes Saturday, Sept. 3, 2022, from 1-3 p.m. at Wallin Stucky Funeral Home in Oak Harbor. A short graveside service will be held for close friends and family at Sunnyside Cemetery in Coupeville Saturday, Oct. 1, 2022.

An Upbeat Question of the week

By Helen Mosbrooker

Has there been a book that has changed your life?

Dawn Miller, Coupeville

The book "The Power of Full Engagement" changed my life for the better. It taught me to manage my energy instead of my time. After reading this book, I structured my weekends. I got all of my work and chores done on Saturday, so that I could use my entire Sunday to rest, relax, and have fun. Cell phones need to be recharged, and so do we. After making time for myself to recharge on Sundays, I noticed the quality of my work and mind-set around being busy dramatically improved. Highly recommend to anyone who feels busy and tired all of the time!

Jane Lopez Santillana, Oak Harbor

As a librarian and bibliophile, many books have changed my life at different periods but I wouldn't be who I am if it weren't for a particular story I read when I was 9 years old. Reading did not come easily to me and I struggled with it in elementary school. However, I loved the magic of a story and being read to. I was fortunate to have a teacher who recognized that. Mr. Warner was of Norwegian heritage and interspersed curriculum with tales of trolls and house nisse. He introduced me to a book of Nordic fairytales and the illustrations were so enchanting that I became determined to read the stories. "East of the Sun and West of the Moon: Old Tales from the North," by Peter Christen Asbjornsen, illustrated by Kay Nielsen, was irresistible! The title story was my favorite tale in the book and continues to be one of my favorite fairytales. Once I conquered that book, I was hungry for more and the school library became my regular sanctuary. If not for that book, those illustrations, and that particular tale, my life could have taken an entirely different track. Reading and books are now at the heart of my identity. Sharing that love of story, reading, and literacy support with the community is one of the best aspects of my work at Sno-Isle Libraries.

Kaley Costello, Clinton

Books have always been my safe haven. My mom was a teacher, and I grew up two blocks from my public library, so reading has always been a staple for me. It's hard for me to choose a single book, so I will have to include a few! I love escaping to another place, so world-building is something I really enjoy. I love "Sabriel," from the Old Kingdom series by Garth Nix. One of my favorite authors is Kurt Vonnegut, and I enjoyed how dark and thought provoking "Mother Night" is. I think what I love most is that books were not only a fun escape for me but became a way I could connect with others. I didn't realize that at the time, it would end up shaping my life so much and become a career path. But in the end, it is still something I do to connect and share with others.

Maria McGee, Oak Harbor

"Breath," by James Nestor, has made an impact on me. Breathing is easy to take for granted until a situation happens and you can't catch your breath. When I had a personal emergency happen, I instantly remembered what I read from the book. I had to change how I normally breathe to be able to catch my breath again and clear my mind from panic since the situation was in a public place. There are different ways to breathe and this book explains how to breathe depending on your situation.

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Island Shakespeare Festival is seeking new members to join our board of directors. We're looking for people who are passionate about high-quality live classical theater and can devote time and energy to support the work of Island Shakespeare Festival's important cultural, social, and fiscal position on Whidbey Island. Our current needs include individuals with backgrounds in the following areas: human resources, donor relations, finance, as well as other skills related to overseeing a performing arts organization. Board members are asked to provide input and feedback to the Board and staff of ISF, attend one full board meeting per month, serve actively on board committees, and attend activities and events sponsored by ISF. Women and persons of color strongly encouraged to apply. For more information, please contact jeff.natter@island-shakespearefest.org.

Big Brothers Big Sisters of Island County (BBBSIC) is actively seeking new member(s) for its board of directors. Join the board's exciting array of professionals! BBBSIC is seeking individuals who are committed to defending the potential of youth in our community through their time, skill sets, and influence in the community. To complement the existing board, candidates with expertise in accounting, law, nonprofit management, networking, or fundraising are of particular interest. Committed to diversifying its board to better represent our community, BBBSIC encourages BIPOC and LGBTQIA community members to inquire. Please contact admin@bbbsislandcounty.org for more information.

If you are looking for a meaningful volunteer opportunity, look no further! When you volunteer at one of the Habitat for Humanity of Island County stores, you are helping local families attain decent, affordable housing. Income from the stores is vital to giving families a path to homeownership. We need people who can commit to help out in our Oak Harbor or Freeland store at least two-hours per week. Schedules are flexible. Our friendly volunteers provide customer service, help with receiving donated household items and furniture, and maintain the store. We also need drivers and driver helpers who will professionally represent Habitat as they pick up donated items using our trucks. Please call either store for more information. Oak Harbor: 360-675-8733, Freeland: 360-331-6272.

College student? Student of history? History buff? Opportunities are available to spend constructive volunteer hours at the Pacific Northwest Naval Air Museum. Go to www.pnwnam.org and click on "Volunteer" or just stop by and introduce yourself.
